Just curious I haven't had much opportunity to fully use this product yet as I'm kinda back logged. However I put one and a half drops on Thursday afternoon not much happened some stares at the Starbucks from the pretty platinum blonde behind the counter but the thing I'm impressed with is that the next morning I had a Dr appointment not at my primary but at a place I been to regularly anyways I didn't have a chance to shower because my ride showed up 30 minutes sooner than planned. So I'm at the Dr office I get in the exam room and while taking my BP the new girl well she's been there closer to a year and change does the preliminary stuff my first time having her and while taking my BP she starts caressing my forearm saying she's cold I need to warm her up not professional but okay then she goes mmm you smell so good That caught my attention as I never had a chance to shower and didn't have on cologne. Is this weird coincidence or is this latinta residue turning them on

It could be the "next day hits" that are mentioned on the forum every now and then. Residual mones. Since the signature may not be as intimidating as a fresh app, it hits gentler women hard.

Typically, the residual mone or the 'next day hits' is from the heavy androstenone.
