

Forum:Pheromone Reviews - Real People - Real Reviews

Thread: A Week With LAID Brand Shampoo & Texture Paste

dbot - April 8, 2012, 5:28 am

Nutshell Review

Following is a very in-depth review of my daily use of these products for the past week. So in case you want to save yourself a few thousand words of reading, here's my overall take on LAID Brand hair products:

As hair products, I find them to be outstanding. I have very fine, dry, thick blond hair that is fairly resistant to styling. What's more, because it is so lightly colored and finely textured, it tends to really show off any product I use in it. The texture paste gives me good texture and shaping ability without making me look like I dumped a tub of product onto my head. It has, in fact, become my #1 favorite styling product! I normally use Redken #11, Axe Whatever paste, or occasionally Redken #20. I'll have to wait a little while for my hair to grow out before I can say for sure whether I can use this product exclusively, but so far the indications are very good! I managed to use the shampoo four days in a row before my hair got too dry to work with, which is at least 2 days more than I can usually wash my hair. Even then, the paste was able to do a decent job of getting it back in line!

As pheromone products, these are some of the best standalone pheromone products I have ever used. I realize that the manufacturer has rated them for 4-5 hours, but in my experience the texture paste is an excellent time-release 12+ hour pheromone product.

When wearing this stuff, I get a very subtle and pleasant self-effect which is confident, cheerful, and sexy. But the real story is how much ladies of all ages seem to like it! I get lots of signs of interest and arousal pretty much everywhere I go with this stuff. Guys get very helpful and buddy-buddy. The amazing thing is that I've seen very little signs of intimidation or aggression from it, even after the 6 hour mark when the mix starts to get a little more sexual.

My wife just loves the stuff - both before and during her period. This product manages to be sexy as hell and still work safe and wife safe. It probably won't be powerful enough as a standalone for crowded bars or clubs, but I can see it providing a very nice base coat to build on.

This formula is definitely very heavy on Androstadienone, but is well-balanced enough that I get no depressive effects until I've been wearing it nonstop for 4-5 days. After that I need a break, because I can't tolerate the high quantity of Androstadienone. Which is a shame, because the product is so good that I want to be able to use it every day. Surprisingly, I never got any androstenone buildup effects that I could detect.

Nevertheless, I like this stuff so much that I would not hesitate to recommend it to someone looking for their one-and-only pheromone product. I love the delivery mechanism. I just do my hair like normal, walk out the door, and enjoy a full day of sexy, charismatic pheromone-enhancement.

Now here's my daily breakdown of testing Laid products for one week:

Day 1 - Laid Shampoo + Laid Texture Paste

As hair products, the Laid shampoo and texture paste seem to be quite good! The shampoo feels nice, has a pleasant scent, and rinses clean. The texture paste was a little thinner than I expected, but once applied seemed to do a very nice job of taming my nordic locks. In fact, this first day wearing it was an exceptionally good hair day! My usually quite finicky hair allowed itself into a most excellent arrangement, where it stayed without looking wet or clumpy. One good hair day, of course, could just be a coincidence, so more days of use are necessary before I can really say for sure how much I like the stuff. The scent of the paste is very light, masculine, and pleasant. For a number of hours after application, I would occasionally detect a gentle waft of something good, only to realize it was coming from my hair.

As a pheromone product, I found the self-effect surprisingly subtle. I noticed a slight relaxed energy coming over me, some increased confidence, and a general sexy feeling. I didn't notice the big phero-rush in the shower that others have described, even when I put my hand right up to my nose for a big whiff.

At school that morning, I noticed an unusually good chatty vibe in the room. Later, one girl in the class who is usually very reserved was unusually fidgety, making frequent eye contact with me, exposing her wrists, and playing with the scarf she had tied around her neck. Several times she seemed to stretch her chest out in my direction.

Waiting for the bus home, a well put-together 50ish woman started chatting me up and continued for the duration of the busride. She seemed to connect with me immediately. I could be wrong, but I got the impression that she did not usually interact with random people this way. At one point she stopped herself and asked if she was bothering me, or if I wanted my silence.

At home, my wife told me a couple of times how great I looked today, and once or twice while I was sitting came in for a hug and a big old sniff of my hair. She seemed somewhat aroused and playful.

The effects seemed to stay level and constant from about 8 am til 2 or 3 in the afternoon - 6+ hours! Around that time, I started getting really horny and having trouble concentrating. I have a feeling that whatever was buffering the androstenone had then begun to wear off. For all-day wear, it may be wise to carry a little something social with you just in case a buffer becomes necessary. But it still wasn't pure androstenone working at this point. There was still something dampening the aggression and turning it more sexual.

Let's see, the ingredients list goes: androstadienone, androstenone, androstanone, androsterone, epiandrosterone -- my guess would that it's mostly the A6 (epi-Androsterone) burning off in the first 6 hours. But then, Chris also mentioned that there is some secret sauce in the mix that is not listed in the ingredients. Anyway, the mix seems to retain some very good properties well past its prime, even beyond the 12 hour mark.

At 14 hours, my wife was still talking about how great I looked that day. Couldn't keep her hands off me. I ended up with a very passionate end to my good hair day.

Day 2 - Laid Shampoo + Texture Paste

I continue to be impressed with the properties of these hair products. The paste could very easily replace my previous favorite, Redken #11. Two good hair days in a row is a win.

Met up with a friend for lunch. On the bus ride there I didn't notice any overt responses, until I quipped something about a loud family that got off the bus to the young Asian girl beside me and she seemed more open than I expected. She laughed quite readily. My buddy seemed fairly normal; perhaps a bit more talkative than usual. On the bus ride back a skinny blonde 20-something to my left was toeing at me pretty persistently, and she was then joined by a buxom 18ish girl who began toeing at me from across the aisle. It was kind of surreal having two ladies within a 4-foot radius twirling and shaking their feet at me simultaneously. The young one began pushing out her breasts and pawing at her hair with her wrist turned out toward me. The grand finale for her was when she braced her arms underneath the boobs, giving them a nice hoist, and proceeded to bend over in her seat while twisting her body around so as to reveal the inside of her cleavage. Excellent.

I had the afternoon free so I just walked around town a bit. Everyone I came into contact with seemed very friendly with me. At hour 6 I stopped into an H&M to pick up a couple things, and the bubbly 20ish girl at the counter started giggling and commenting on how cute my underwear were Jesus, Chris, what'd you put in this stuff??

This seems to be a remarkably solid, charismatic blend suitable for daily wear while being sexy as hell. I'm impressed that it's this sexy while still managing to be so likeable. And I know this stuff is officially rated for 4-5 hours of use, but so far in my experience this seems to be a pretty damn good all-day pheromone product. If somebody weren't really into messing with the hobby of pheromones -- a dab of this, 2 drops of that, three sprays of the other thing -- I could comfortably recommend this as their one and only pheromone product. Just style your hair and be done with it.

That night, I went out on a date with my wife. I found everyone we encountered to be unusually interested and accommodating. The men I interacted with seemed to regard me as a really cool and interesting person. Around hour 12, My wife again started telling me how great I was looking the last couple of days, how confident and stylish I seemed. This is very unusual for her on a couple of different levels. She is not ordinarily so specifically complimentary. Also, she is rarely responsive to any pheromones -- and she's been exposed to damn near everything on the market. Even more unusual is that this positive response came on the first day of her period, which is a time when she is typically even less responsive than usual!

I will continue to wear this stuff on its own for a couple days to judge its consistency and gauge for build-up effects.

Day 3 - Laid Shampoo and Texture Paste

I continue to be impressed with the quality of these hair products. The shampoo is very concentrated. After 4 days of use I'm not even halfway through my 1oz sample. It produces a profuse, creamy lather and the scent is refreshing and masculine.

For the texture paste, I use a dab about the volume of an almond and it does my short (~1-2in) hair very nicely. At that rate, my sample container is going to last like a month! And the level of control that I have with this product is quite a bit better than anything else I've tried actually -- I can fully style my hair without it looking like I used a bunch of product to style it. I'm really impressed with the performance of this stuff. I would actually buy it even if it didn't have any pheromones in it.

In fact, I'm very interested to see whether I detect androstenone buildup after a few days, because if not I'll just use it every day, and if so I'll try to convince Laid Brand to make a phero-free version to use every few days while I wait for the buildup to disperse. I keep wanting to try the shampoo on its own just to see what its pheromone-infusing properties are like, but I just don't want to go without this great styling paste!

Anyway, that morning I went my local Starbucks to work on my dissertation. I sat at one of those big tables where a number of people can sit down and work, and you have room to spread out some papers and whatnot. Within 5 minutes of sitting down, a sexy 40ish hispanic woman started doing stretches that just happened to pop her boobs out in my direction. She seemed to get back into the swing of her work after a while, but I noticed a goodly amount of lip-licking and boob-popping from her on an ongoing basis. When she got up to leave, she popped the tip of her tongue out of her mouth and just displayed it for a minute while getting herself together to leave.

I notice that the older a woman is, the more fine-tuned her control of her arousal response generally is. Young girls start wriggling and eyeballing you right away, whereas older women may never look directly at you. In many cases I see them looking everywhere but at me, making creating a rather conspicuous absence.

An older gentleman asked me to keep an eye on his laptop while he went to the bathroom, but had trouble putting his request together, like he was trying to sound really cool about it. This could be a respect hit.

A bit later as I sat working I noticed a smoking hot early-20s girl with curly black hair and dark skin - undetermined ethnicity -- walking by me. I looked up to find her looking at me and smiling as she walked by! This performance was then repeated 10 minutes later! There were incidental smiles from a couple other young hotties as well as time went by, but I was mostly focused on my research.

Returning home for a late lunch, my wife -- who was fully into her period now -- continued to be very affectionate and seemed to be comforted by my presence. Very unusual when wearing a high-androstenone product. Must be quite a bit of Androstadienone in here as well.

Day 4 - Laid Shampoo & Texture Paste

This day went very much like the previous. I used both products again - this time noticing that my hair was finally getting a bit stripped from shampooing every day. My hair doesn't agree with daily shampooing; I can get away with maybe 3 times a week. So I'm sort of impressed that it took 4 days for this shampoo to dry my hair out. I actually just noticed this morning that it was 2-in-1 shampoo and body wash! I haven't used it as a body wash yet.

It was another Starbucks study day for me. The two cute young baristas seemed exceptionally eager to serve. The girl who made my drink handed it to me with an unusual depth of prolonged eye contact.

I sat down across from a couple of college girls who were each working on their laptops. Both of them showed a strange tendency to spread their knees apart in my general direction and fidget with their legs a bit. One doped-up thirty-something developed a bit of a Deer in the headlights look at me as she walked by. She almost stopped in the middle of her path back from the bathroom. I thought she might be stroking out or something.

Later that night, my wife continued her pattern from the previous days of just really thinking I'm the bees knees. Period or no period, she loves this stuff!

Day 5 - Laid Texture Paste Only

Today I wanted to give my hair a break from the daily shampooing that it hates, and also to test out the texture paste on its own! Unfortunately, I got caught up in a bunch of projects and ended up never leaving the house :/

It's really surprising that this product has such excellent social effects, while having such subtle self-effects. This is great for me, because I tend to get overwhelmed by self-effects very easily and so can't often use doses as large as other people report good results with. But with this stuff, I get a nice little confidence boost, some positive mood effects, and that's it -- no phero-rush. This is a very good thing!

However, during the course of day five I started really noticing some depression effects - lower energy, poor mood, negative internal dialog, general feeling of being overwhelmed. The hallmarks of too much Androstadienone exposure, for me. I'm not sure whether it's building up in my hair, or whether the prolonged exposure is just starting to get to me. I haven't been showering before bed, so I have been continuously exposed for days now. And even though I've been using it for the most part first thing in the morning, I find that this stuff just lasts and lasts. It might last 24 hours!

Day 6 - Body Wash and Texture Paste

Today the Androstadienone depression got to me pretty hard. I went around town running some errands, and even though people were responding to me positively, I had that feeling like I just needed to get away. This lasted for pretty much the whole day. In the evening I washed my hair and skin really well and the effects faded pretty quickly.

So for me, it looks like 4 days in a row is about the limit of my tolerance for the level of Androstadienone in this mix. However, the fact that I felt better right away after washing it off probably means that the effect was not caused by buildup in my actual hair. Thinking back, effects seemed pretty consistent throughout the week I've been testing these products; I never got a sense that there was androstenone (A2) buildup, which surprised me.

I really hope the texture paste ends up being sold in both the phero-enhanced version and a phero-free version, because I love this hair product and would love to be able to use it every day.

FUNNER - April 8, 2012, 7:20 am

Great report D.

Sounds like we got the same hair. Fine and a lot of it. I hate hair goop though because if I ever accidentally touch my head I get that stick all over my hands or sun glasses.

dbot - April 8, 2012, 7:29 am

I hear you Funner, I've gone through so many different kinds of hair goop I can't even remember them all. And I've got lots of photos of myself where I look like I've been dumping the crap all over myself. But if I don't use it, I get a big soft bunny-fur frizzy mess. The wife says it's cute, but I can't tolerate it

FUNNER - April 8, 2012, 7:46 am

What I think is most intriguing about the good reports regarding the hair stuff is not the benefits of the hair styling. It's the delivery medium, straight up.

Chris has commented in the past about how he liked the hair for diffusion reasons. My concern was always build up over time. But could it be that the this medium works better than skin for diffusion purposes, not to none conversion when sweaty etc?

Perhaps the hair is where it's at and I for one would like that. Steveo mentioned in another post how he was creating a phero that required just one spray and it was like "Halelujia".

On the AD site, for Crissakes some are not spraying, they're showering! Meant to add diffusion AND longevity of hair application point - not just diffusion.

All Day - Yo!!!

dbot - April 8, 2012, 7:54 am

Yeah, for surface area, hair simply can't be beat. And it seems like one of the main evolutionary purposes of the stuff is specifically to diffuse pheromones! I really expected to see a lot of Androstenedione buildup from this stuff, and was surprised that I didn't. It will be interesting to see if other people do. It could be a property of the hair goop that it keeps the mones locked into it.

One thing I've been thinking about trying the whole time I've been testing this is maybe taking a couple sprays of Glace and rubbing it through all of my hair the same time as the styling paste. I'm planning on giving it a try sometime in the next week.

After a bunch of testing with fixatives, I've decided that the main problem with the AD stuff is that they're using DPG as the main fixative. But DPG totally sucks as a fixative! At 10% DPG, there really is hardly any benefit at all! I've taken all the AD products I have left laying around and added 2 pellets of monolaurin per 5mL of product. My preliminary tests indicate that this is quite helpful. Hard to tell with them, since AD products are always so inconsistent for me anyway.

Much easier to tell with a product like fastburn Glace in alcohol/DPG. I need to do some systematic testing and reporting with that stuff still, but basically in my opinion monolaurin is the shit! You can just drop a couple pellets into whatever alcohol-based product you've got and the product gets better in every way. But it can't overcome the other problem with AD products, which is the incredibly potent and tenacious fragrances that they use to try and overcome the fact that they are trying to use DPG as a fixative!

zerosix85 - April 8, 2012, 7:56 am

Hey dbot, If you can, try applying witch hazel to your hair before you wash/shampoo it off. I had OD problems with socials as I liked to apply those to my hair before I made that discovery.

Pheroman - April 8, 2012, 8:05 am

Great Report.

Lately I have been spraying Glace on my head.

I can still see the effect, but it just seems to affect me much more than those around me.

dbot - April 8, 2012, 8:14 am

@Zerosix. - Thanks for the tip! In this case, I think the problem is more my low tolerance for Androstadienone than buildup, since washing with regular shampoo made me feel much better in pretty short order.

@Pheroman - interesting that Glace to the head has more self-effects for you. How long is your hair? And do you spray from a ways away, or up close, or onto your hands and then run it through?

FUNNER - April 8, 2012, 8:15 am

(04-08-2012 2:54 AM)dbot Wrote: And it seems like one of the main evolutionary purposes of the stuff is specifically to diffuse pheromones! Great point above. Might as well exploit that purpose no?

I gotta get me some of that monolaurin.

One of the things I REALLY appreciate about AlphaDream is the non-scented versions.

I don't care what stuff does if it make me smell like a fruitcake I get self concious to the point that the good phero effects are nullified because I know (or at least believe and that's all that matters) I smell like a mosquito candle. Adrotics is a fail on both accounts with me.

Stoked on the hair app !!!

Cman888 - April 8, 2012, 11:08 am

I agree with you in that LAID hair styling paste as a hair product is phenomenal. I've yet to notice any phero effects, but maybe I'm not applying enough?

I wonder how many mones per tsp, etc.

But regardless of pheromone, I will buy this just for the hair product. Mones are a bonus.

I would like to see it at a stronger hold, like a 6-7 so it will be beneficial for shorter hair, but I guess that's why there is a pomade. which is also probably amazing.

Cman888 - April 8, 2012, 11:08 am

I agree with you in that LAID hair styling paste as a hair product is phenomenal. I've yet to notice any phero effects, but maybe I'm not applying enough?

I wonder how many mones per tsp, etc.

But regardless of pheromone, I will buy this just for the hair product. Mones are a bonus.

I would like to see it at a stronger hold, like a 6-7 so it will be beneficial for shorter hair, but I guess that's why there is a pomade. which is also probably amazing.

Rattlesnake - April 8, 2012, 1:13 pm

Awesome report dbot, nominated!!

LAID Brand - April 8, 2012, 5:01 pm

DBOT, that was an amazing post my friend. Thank you! After 2 long, hard years of work this tells me it was worth it. We will be coming up with many more professional grade products for men and women. When our lab produces samples, we can get some made with and without phero's. Any without phero's will go to you brother!!

dbot - April 9, 2012, 6:35 pm

Awesome!

I definitely don't want to give the impression that the phero mix isn't awesome too -- it is! And most people will probably have no trouble wearing it daily or almost daily.

The next step is to see how the mix does with other Pheromones added. I'm thinking some Glace or some nols+nenos, maybe some p83.

LAID Brand - April 10, 2012, 2:55 am

(04-08-2012 6:08 AM)Cman888 Wrote: ! agree with you in that LAID hair styling paste as a hair product is phenomenal. I've yet to notice any phero effects, but maybe I'm not applying enough?

I wonder how many mones per tsp, etc.

But regardless of pheromone, I will buy this just for the hair product. Mones are a bonus.

I would like to see it at a stronger hold, like a 6-7 so it will be beneficial for shorter hair, but I guess that's why there is a pomade. which is also probably amazing.

Glad you like the products bro! I wanna say we calculated an avg of about 6mg of mones per average use for all products.

dbot - April 10, 2012, 5:13 pm

Holy cow! 6mgs per application?? As in 6000mcg? That can't be right...

LAIID Brand - April 10, 2012, 5:16 pm

(04-10-2012 12:13 PM)dbot Wrote: Holy cow! 6mgs per application?? As in 6000mcg? That can't be right...

HAHA! Woops, so right. I just went back to my pheromone calc tool we created, it was roughly 125mcg per application (dime size amount)

dbot - April 10, 2012, 5:19 pm

Ah, that makes sense. Especially since I'm getting day-long diffusion from it. So it's probably putting off something like 10-20mcg per hour with the amount I use.

I love how steady the diffusion feels. No massive rush, no burnout. It just lasts and lasts.

dbot - April 13, 2012, 5:56 am

Today I used LAID shampoo and texture paste to go out car shopping. Interesting experience! A male salesman seemed to lose it in the way that he totally forgot to try to sell the car, and just focused on his scripted scarcity bullshit. But he wasn't convincing and seemed to know he wasn't convincing.

A female saleswoman seemed to lose it in a way that she became an open book, rambling everything that came to mind and going so far as to show us the internal pricing sheets detailing the difference between mfr invoice & sticker price.

My dad was in town, so for dinner & hangout afterward I spritzed 2-3 mini-sprays of fast burn glaze in alcohol with monolaurin added. This definitely enhanced communication and fun. We ended up talking much longer than usual and enjoying ourselves much more than usual. Very good social mix there.

Scensation - April 16, 2012, 9:43 am

I must say that I am very intrigued. Mostly it is because the self-effects that people have been reporting. On top of that, I need hair gel anyway. It's good to kill two birds with one stone.

I do wonder how the mood-lifting self-effects compare with other products, such as Wolf.

Not much has been reported how long the effects last in real life on men, although dbot claimed they lasted around 12 hours in contrast to the manufacturer's 4-5 hours. If that's the case with most people, it's very good news and impressive indeed.

Perhaps Chris would know this better; I wonder if the hair paste would interfere with other products.

Paradox - April 20, 2012, 2:19 pm

Damn fine report dbot I am in the middle of testing this product.

Dbot, Did you know that the shampoo is a bodywash also?

dbot - April 20, 2012, 2:22 pm

I only figured out that it was shampoo and bodywash in one after like 4 days of testing!

Paradox - April 20, 2012, 2:39 pm

(04-20-2012 9:22 AM)dbot Wrote: I only figured out that it was shampoo and bodywash in one after like 4 days of testing!

LOL, I nominated your post.

dbot - April 28, 2012, 8:39 pm

After a bit of break, this morning I washed and styled my hair with LAID products.

Breakfast with the wife was lovey dovey, both of us feeling good and relaxing.

I had a bit of work to take care of at home and I just thought to post this update because it occurred to me how great I'm feeling! Really happy and centered.

I'm heading to Starbucks with my laptop in a bit. Maybe I'll take this opportunity to see how LAID does with some Glace.

Dafixisin - April 28, 2012, 10:49 pm

(04-28-2012 3:39 PM)dbot Wrote: After a bit of break, this morning I washed and styled my hair with LAID products.

Breakfast with the wife was lovey dovey, both of us feeling good and relaxing.

I had a bit of work to take care of at home and I just thought to post this update because it occurred to me how great I'm feeling! Really happy and centered.

I'm heading to Starbucks with my laptop in a bit. Maybe I'll take this opportunity to see how LAID does with some Glace.

Keep the reviews coming dbot! These products have really caught my eye. Haven't had my interest piqued this much since I initially got into Aqua Vitae and Liquid Alchemy Labs. Sounds like Chris from Alpha Dream has helped the Laid brand pull off a stunning debut.

Paradox, waiting to read your reviews!

LAID Brand - April 28, 2012, 11:44 pm

(04-28-2012 5:49 PM)Dafixisin Wrote: Keep the reviews coming dbot! These products have really caught my eye. Haven't had my interest piqued this much since I initially got into Aqua Vitae and Liquid Alchemy Labs. Sounds like Chris from Alpha Dream has helped the Laid brand pull off a stunning debut.

Paradox, waiting to read your reviews!

Thanks for your interest! Chris did an amazing job!

Where are you located? (04-28-2012 3:39 PM)dbot Wrote: After a bit of break, this morning I washed and styled my hair with LAID products.

Breakfast with the wife was lovey dovey, both of us feeling good and relaxing.

I had a bit of work to take care of at home and I just thought to post this update because it occurred to me how great I'm feeling! Really happy and centered.

I'm heading to Starbucks with my laptop in a bit. Maybe I'll take this opportunity to see how LAID does with some Glace.

Dbot, you the man! Glad LAID can be of service!!)

dbot - April 29, 2012, 12:23 am

On top of the LAID shampoo & paste, I applied three sprays of fast-burn Glace and threw in a spritz of double-strength Turn Up The Heat to let 'em know I mean business.

I headed over to the Bucks to get some work done. Gay barrista looked very skeptical, and could barely form words. Could've just been hung over or something.

I plopped myself down next to a sleek and sexy Latina, ~23 years old. I got a phone call right after I sat down that lasted for like ten minutes, and even though she had headphones on I kept seeing her peek over at me. When I finished up the call I leaned over and told her I was sorry about that, didn't want to break her concentration. Her reaction was priceless -- she literally jumped a little to take those headphones out and gave me BIG smile while saying it was no problem at all. We both got back to work until I got up to run to the restroom and asked her to watch my laptop. "Definitely!" she exclaimed with unusual enthusiasm. I gave her a little pet on the shoulder when I got back and she beamed. When she got up to leave she turned back to wave goodbye, even though we hadn't really talked.

Later a group of 6 Indian women ages 25-35 were carrying on and laughing about 6 feet from me. When they saw me looking at them, four of the women walked over and started talking to me! I teased them a bit, asking if they were touring, and they started explaining how excited they were to be away from their husbands and kids. One of them suggested that if they get this excited to be at Starbucks, just imagine after a couple of drinks...

So today wasn't too eventful, but I can definitely see how this mix could be a damn good time in a slightly more social context.

Dafixisin - April 29, 2012, 7:51 pm

(04-28-2012 6:44 PM)LAID Brand Wrote: Thanks for your interest! Chris did an amazing job!

Where are you located? (04-28-2012 3:39 PM)dbot Wrote: After a bit of break, this morning I washed and styled my hair with LAID products.

Breakfast with the wife was lovey dovey, both of us feeling good and relaxing.

I had a bit of work to take care of at home and I just thought to post this update because it occurred to me how great I'm feeling! Really happy and centered.

I'm heading to Starbucks with my laptop in a bit. Maybe I'll take this opportunity to see how LAID does with some Glace.

Dbot, you the man! Glad LAID can be of service!!)

Huh? Asking me where I'm located? Suburbs just south of Seattle, WA.

LAID Brand - April 29, 2012, 9:42 pm

(04-29-2012 2:51 PM)Dafixisin Wrote: Dbot, you the man! Glad LAID can be of service!!)

Huh? Asking me where I'm located? Suburbs just south of Seattle, WA.

[/quote]

Ok apologies if it came off sounding strange. Since you're domestic I can get samples out to you this week. Would you like me to send some to you? I would value your feedback. Thanks!

MangoEruption - May 1, 2012, 5:22 am

@ LAID Brand: I'm really intrigued at the phenomenal reviews your products are garnering. I really want to try them out, but I went on your website and saw two different hair styling products. Which one most resembles American Crew Fiber?

?????? - November 17, 2012, 7:37 pm

hey dBot , any update regarding using this with Wolf/AM/Androstadienone/Glace combo's?

Thanks in advance ,

-mX